General Discussion

This year we conduct two schools in Washington. The East Washington school was closed due to the fact that by the opening of school last fall only one family with school children was left in the district. The remaining children from East Washington are now carried to Washington Center. At the Dole school we have an enrollment of seventeen pupils, and fourteen at the Center. At this writing there are six pupils attending Hillsboro high school. Our total school population is now thirty-seven.

An important school problem confronting Washington just now is transportation for high school children. In a district without high school, transportation is a problem not only for those families with high school children but for the school district itself. Both State and Federal governments are giving considerable thought at the present time toward furnishing adequate transportation for high school children, as well as for those attending the grades. Such a provision is necessary if society is to provide equal opportunity for education in a democracy. The Washington school district has already shown a disposition toward progress as shown by the improvements reported previously, and the provision made at the last annual meeting of the school district to make it possible for the carriers of school children to secure school bus insurance.

We earnestly hope that electric power may be made available soon so that the schools may enjoy the benefit of the electric fixtures which have been installed.

It may be old fashioned but nevertheless true to say that neither elementary nor high school children can do adequate school work without a certain amount of home study. We hope that the parents of our pupils will cooperate in this respect. The schools cannot do it alone.

The teachers are working hard, and take an individual interest in their pupils. The superintendent keeps in contact with the schools by his frequent visits, and attendance at board meetings. The school board are doing their best to provide educational opportunity within the limits set by the state and the school district.

Respectfully submitted,

VINCENT GATTO,

Superintendent of Schools.
